

Looking for something to do with your family this summer?

Want something that is educational, fun and cheap?

Then the Passport to Family Learning is for you!

What is it and how does it work?

The Passport to Family Learning is a joint initiative involving some of Dublin's best but also often overlooked sites.

- When you visit one of the sites listed inside, you present your passport
- This will allow your family either free entry or entry at a discounted rate.
- Each site will stamp your passport to show that you have visited. (You can't use it more than once!)
- The idea is to try and collect all the stamps and of course to have some fun along the way!

What are the sites I can visit?

St Patrick's Cathedral (collect your passport here!)

Chester Beatty Library

National Print Museum

Rathfarnham Castle

St Audoen's Church

Marsh's Library

Castletown House

Dublin Castle

How much does all this cost?

Free!

Ok, how can I get a Passport to Family Learning?

First of all, act fast! We are going to issue only 1000 passports in total. The passports will be available from the 1st of June. We are going to leave approx 500 behind the front desk in St Patrick's Cathedral where you can come and pick one up. You can also apply for one through the cathedral's office. Send a stamped self-addressed envelope to:

Education Department

St Patrick's Cathedral

St Patrick's Close

Dublin 8

Any conditions/catches?

- The passport is valid from the 1st June to the 1st September 2012
- You can only use the passport once
- Help us to help you – buy a cup of coffee or maybe stop at the gift shop while you're there.
- Have fun! We want to show Irish people how many amazing sites are right on their doorstep!
- Help us do this again! You can help by giving us feedback on the passport.
